Respected Sir,

We have pleasure to inform you that an International Conference on “Strategic Management of Energy, Environment and Disaster for Sustainable Development” is being organized jointly by the Faculty of Management Studies and Department of Geography, Banaras Hindu University, India and Global Strategic Management Inc., Michigan, USA during January 11-15, 2010.

The Conference will provide an interactive platform to the academicians, practitioners and policy makers to exchange ideas and their experiences regarding development of contemporary model of sustainable development based on Strategic Management of Energy, Environment and Disaster. It will focus on resolving the conflict between the sustainable human development on one side and the over exploitation and destruction of environment indiscriminately and the injudicious use of depleting sources of energy on the other side. Further, the natural and anthropogenic processes causing disaster will also be in the focus of discussion. The Conference theme being of contemporary importance has the potential to attract cross section of experts both from the academics and the policymakers across the world.

On this occasion, the organizing committee has decided to bring out a ‘SOVENIR’ containing the basic information about the conference and the abstracts of the papers accepted for presentation. We look forward to your kind blessings and a ‘Message’ for the SOUVENIR. We are confident that your message will not only set the pace and direction of the conference but will also act as a motivating force for the organizing committee to achieve the intended objective of the conference.

With profound regards,

Prof. S.K. Singh
Secretary General
